

KIMONO TSUKI 着物月

a giantess's adventures in tiny vintage silks

ABOUT DIANE + KIMONO TSUKI

My name is Diane, I am a thirty-something woman with a passion for wearing and collecting vintage kimono. I've been studying kimono and Japanese traditional arts for fifteen years, and writing about it for just about a decade.

Kimono Tsuki is a English-language blog devoted to my passion for kimono, geisha, and traditional Japanese arts and culture. Along with sharing coordinations and crafts, I often review modern products and services inspired by Japanese culture that would be of particular interest to my readers and followers. While my reader base is not immense, it is highly specialised.
